*With/without driver's education

Graduated Driver Licensing (GDL) laws require young drivers to gain driving experience before obtaining full driving privileges. Typical provisions include required number of hours of supervised driving, restrictions on nighttime driving and passengers and prohibition on cell phone use/texting. Most programs include three stages:

- Learner Stage: supervised driving, cumulating with a driving test;
- Intermediate Stage: limits unsupervised driving in high risk situations; and
- Full Privilege Stage: regular driver's license.

Every state has a graduated licensing system for driver's licensing
